

1 What Is Claimed Is:

1. A first device holder (110) comprising:

A) an envelope (12) having a complimentary configuration to a device;

B) a first strap (116) securely fastened at a bottom distal end to a top end of the envelope (12); and

6 C) a clip securely connected at a bottom end to a top distal end of the first strap (116).

- 1 2. The first device holder (110) as described in claim 1, wherein the first strap (116) comprises a fastener (14) spliced therein.
3. The first device holder (110) as described in claim 2, wherein the fastener (14) comprises a female fastener (14A) securely affixed at a top end to the bottom distal end of the first strap (116) and a complimentary configured male fastener 6 (14B) securely affixed at a bottom end to a top end of the envelope (12).
4. The first device holder (110) as described in claim 1, wherein the clip is a first clip (118) which comprises a first clip loop (118A) and a first clip lever (118B) pivotally mounted on the first clip loop (118A) forming a closure therebetween.
5. The first device holder (110) as described in claim 1, wherein the first clip lever 11 (118B) comprises a biasing means to automatically make the closure with the first clip loop (118A).

- 1 6. The first device holder (110) as described in claim 1, wherein the clip is a second clip (218) which comprises a second clip loop (218A) and a second clip lever (218B) pivotally mounted on the second clip loop (218A) forming a closure therebetween, a second clip ring (218C) is rotatably connected to the second clip loop (218A) by a second clip shaft (218D).
- 6 7. The first device holder (110) as described in claim 1, wherein the device is selected from a group consisting of cordless phone, cellular phone, personal data assistant, calculator, pocket personal computer, cassette player, CD ROM player, radio, DVD player, bar code scanner, E.P.I.R.B., light flasher and flashlight.

- 1 8. A third device holder (310) comprising:
- A) a second strap (216);
- B) a circumferential expandable upper holder (20U) securely attached to top end of the second strap (216) and a circumferential expandable lower holder (20L) securely attached to bottom end of the second strap (216); and
- 6 C) a clip securely connected at a bottom end to a top distal end of the first strap (116).

- 1 9. The third device holder (310) as described in claim 8, wherein the second strap (216) comprises a fastener (14) spliced therein.
10. The third device holder (310) as described in claim 9, wherein the fastener (14) comprises a female fastener (14A) and a complimentary configured male fastener (14B).
- 6 11. The third device holder (310) as described in claim 8, wherein the clip is a first clip (118) which comprises a first clip loop (118A) and a first clip lever (118B) pivotally mounted on the first clip loop (118A) forming a closure therebetween.
12. The third device holder (310) as described in claim 8, wherein the first clip lever (118B) comprises a biasing means to automatically make the closure with the first clip loop (118A).
- 11

- 1 13. The third device holder (310) as described in claim 8, wherein the clip is a second clip (218) which comprises a second clip loop (218A) and a second clip lever (218B) pivotally mounted on the second clip loop (218A) forming a closure therebetween, a second clip ring (218C) is rotatably connected to the second clip loop (218A) by a second clip shaft (218D).
- 6 14. The third device holder (310) as described in claim 8, wherein the device is selected from a group consisting of cordless phone, cellular phone, personal data assistant, calculator, pocket personal computer, cassette player, CD ROM player, radio, DVD player, bar code scanner, E.P.I.R.B., light flasher, and flashlight.
- 11 15. The third device holder (310) as described in claim 8, wherein an outer edge of the lower holder (20L) is secondly securely connected to the second strap (216) between the upper holder (20U) and the first secure connection of the lower holder (20L) forming a cradle upon which the device rests upon a lower end of the second strap (216).